Fine watch repairing at O. C. Harris.

Wheat is on the advance, being 72c in Chicago Monday.

Iron and wood beam D. S. plows at Brother & Co.'s; $1.75 each.

Cherries have had their turn. The crop was a rather light one.

Go to O. C. Harris for fine watch and jewelry repairing. All work guaranteed.

The opening hop at Olympian Springs takes place Friday night, June 15th.

The celebrated "Swan Blue" grain cradle for sale by "Bud" Brother.

Sunday and Monday with their heat were trying to the tobacco plants set last week.

For a stylish turnout of any description go to PATTERSON & CATLETT.

Seven good citizens of Yale came down Saturday evening and joined the K. of P. lodge here.

Leave your order with Brother & Co. for Screen Doors and Windows.

The prospect is that the wheat crop will be one of the finest ever harvested in the county.

E. C. PERRY, Dentist, located over J. M. Richards' store. Office hours 8 to 12 a. m.; 1 to 5 p. m.

Some folks are eating new potatoes, and that's what'll be "eating" them when their insides go on a strike.

Full stock of Hoes, Scythes, Axes, Seed Strippers, etc., at Brother & Co.'s.

The moon indulged in a little eclipse Tuesday night. It wasn't really worth Luna's while bothering about it.

If you have never had one of the station J. S. Brown's colts consult parties that have for size, style and action. Dr. G. W. CONNER.

The Flemingsburg Gazette says Luke Pettus, of the Savannah (Ga.) News, Sundayed in that town, leaving for Lexington Monday.

Get prices on the Champion Mowers and Malta Double Shovel Plows and Cultivators at Eugene Minihan's.

Some of the boys had a little fist-and-skull fun Sunday night and walked up to the captain's office Tuesday and paid their fare.

For Rent.—Pasture, good fence and lasting water. Field and timber land. Yearlings $50, cattle $80 cents per head.

Rox's Run Iron Co.

Strawberries are nearly a departed glory of spring, but the raspberry season is nearly due, which make a partial substitute.

Tobacco Growers, if you want to know of a process guaranteed to keep your tobacco free of worms write for free information to Hillis Bros., McFall, Mo.

From not having their ground ready, and their plants being small, too, a few failed to set out their tobacco during last week's season.

Why is it that one of the get of J. S. Brown sold in the fall of 1899 for $280 when so many horses bred by other stallions sold for less than $100? Simply because the get of J. S. Brown have the size, style and shape. Dr. G. W. CONNER.

Thos. Woodard, aged 31 years, son of W. S. Woodard, died of consumption on Lick Branch Sunday and was buried at the family burial ground Monday.

For Rent.—Good blue grass and timothy pasture, with plenty lasting water. Calves and yearlings $20 cts. per month; cattle $1.50 per month; horses and mules $1.75. Apply to foreman at the mines. ROSS RUN IRON CO.

The "old, old story" which his other name is Albert, was on the street Monday selling his California Mead. "Help yourself, help yourself," could be heard all day long.

The noted stallion J. S. Brown will make the season of 1900 at the same barn on upper Prickly Ash. The get of this horse bring the biggest prices. You will make no mistake if you breed to this celebrated stallion.

Dr. G. W. CONNER.

The farmers will have to whoop it up, Peter, for a while now. Tobacco and corn both need working, and wheat harvest will be on them the last of this or first of next week.

Judge James D. Black, of Harboursville, spoke here to a fair-sized crowd Monday in the interest of his race for the Goebelt gubernatorial nomination.

The mass convention of the Goebelt Democrats Saturday to send delegates to the Louisville convention was attended by about 25. The absence of old and true Democrats was noticeable.

An invitation of the Board of Trustees of the Washington and Lee University, Lexington, Va., to attend the dedication of the new law building to the memory of John Randolph Tucker, Tuesday, June 19th, 1900, is acknowledged.

Mrs. Elizabeth Stull, aged 71 years, died, at the home of her husband Moses Stull, between Olympia and the Springs, of general debility and consumption Wednesday night, June 6th. The burial occurred near her home the following day.

UNCLAIMED LETTERS.—Remaining in the Postoffice at Owingsville June 12, 1900: Miss Peachie Bailey, Miss Lucy W. Thomson, Miss Annie Traler, Davy Thompson, Elijah Teal, Ben F. Thompson, Rev. Chas. W. Byrd. Persons calling for above letters will please say "advertised." J. N. BROWN, P. M.

THE OUTLOOK was asked the question some time ago who was the presiding officer of the Senate after the death of Vice President Hobart. We had no means of finding out just at the time. It has been learned since that Senator Frye, of Maine, is the President pro tempore of the Senate.

DIED.—James Collier died of consumption, at his home on Pecked Oak Tuesday night, June 5th, and was buried the next day at the Bailey Jackson burial ground. He was a nice, quiet man, a farmer by occupation. His widow and six children have the sympathy of their many friends in their sorrow.

COURT DAY.—The farmers were too busy to turn out in large numbers Monday and the attendance at the monthly market was the smallest for a long time. The merchants had a light trade in consequence, except the hardware men, who were busy in harvesting implements and supplies.

About two thirds of the 185 cattle offered were sold at a little less price than the same class have been bringing.

There was a demand for large mules for harvesting purposes, but none were on sale. Several horses changed hands locally. Mason Talbott, of North Middletown, bought three head at $85 to $100.

HALF-PAY EXCURSION TO PHILADELPHIA AND RETURN.—Republican National Convention. Round-trip tickets will be sold June 14th to 18th, inclusive, good returning until June 26th, at rate of one fare for the round trip via Chesapeake and Ohio Railway, the Rhine, the Alps and the Battlefield Line of America. Stop-over privileges at Washington and Baltimore.

The F. F. V. Limited, over the C. & O. Ry., is the only electric-lighted, solid-vestibuled train with through dining-car service and observation car. For time table address C. B. Ryan, A. G. P. A., Cincinnati, Ohio.

"OLD FICK'S" PRETTY CHILDREN.—In a conversation recently concerning her trip to Texas last winter Mrs. Josephine Moore spoke of meeting all the Bath county people settled in Hill county except perhaps one with whom she had no acquaintance. Of course, they were all delighted to see her and made her visit one of eminent pleasure. She is positively enthusiastic about Jo Ficklin's two children and declares they are the prettiest little ones nearly that she ever saw. And she says Jo is as proud of them as anybody ever was of anything in this world. "Old Fick," as Jo began calling himself before he was twenty, is certainly to be congratulated on his great good fortune.

LOUISVILLE TOBACCO MARKET.—By George R. Snyder, of the Stone Tobacco Warehouse Co.—June 9, 1900.—This week's market has been more satisfactory than any we have had to report for months past. Manufacturers who have been unable to use the winter-order tobacco have been taking freely in strong competition with other factories of the dried tobacco that have been offered on the breaks this week. This caused more snap in the bidding and more activity among the buyers than to secure redried tobacco. Receipts are still light and will continue that way for probably two weeks. We sold for Mr. H. Green, of Montgomery county, this week leaf, lugs and trash at $13, 13, 12.75, 11.50 and 11. Reports from the planting is that it is general and one of the biggest crops set in years.

PAXTON-WARNER.—Elder Sherman Paxton and Miss Lucy Warner were united in marriage by Elder Tinsley at the home of the bride Sunday morning, June 10th. Only their close relatives were present.

Mr. and Mrs. Paxton left shortly after the ceremony for a visit to the sister of the bride, Mrs. Erma Gorham, at Millersburg. The wedding was a surprise except to the intimate friends of the bride couple, though they are splendidly matched young people and their union can not but be pleasing to all their friends. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Lou Warner and her husband, the late Reuben Warner. She is a pretty girl, accomplished in the domestic arts, and beloved by a large circle of friends for her admirable disposition and sweet womanliness. The bridegroom is a son of Frank Paxton, of near Preston. He was educated for the Christian ministry at the Lexington Bible College and has become a popular preacher. He has also been in the furniture and undertakers' business here for some years, the present style of his firm being Paxton & Denton. He is an exemplary young man and has bright prospects for a useful and successful career. He and his lovely bride are heartily congratulated upon the important step they have taken and the best of life's blessings are wished them.

USEFUL BOOK.—That Kentucky Campaign; or the Law, the Ballot and the People in the Goebelt-Taylor Contest. By R. E. Hughes, F. W. Schaefer and E. L. Williams. Louisville, Ky. Illustrated. The Robert Clarke Company, Publishers, Cincinnati, O., 1900.

This work as far as examined seems to have been written with a view to give the general reader a reasonably full, non-partisan account of Wm. Goebelt's great struggle for political mastery in Kentucky, commencing with the introduction of the Goebelt Election bill in the General Assembly and ending with the decision of the Supreme Court of the United States denying jurisdiction to the Republican contest. A full impartial history of the same is nowhere else to be had, and this work is useful accordingly. The style is that of the skillful newspaper writer and it holds the reader's attention and interest throughout. In mechanical make-up it is of standard quality, the printing, paper and binding all being good. The half-tone portraits and other illustrations, together with the cartoons reproduced from the national press, give it an additional interest. Altogether it is a book that will be keenly appreciated by every reader, especially by Kentuckians. It is well worth the price, $1.75.

Wm. Haney, who has been employed for the past two years with Joeson Brothers, left Monday for Owingsville to accept a position in that city. We congratulate Mr. Haney upon securing a lucrative position and the gentlemen who employed him in securing his valuable services.—Morehead Mountaineer.

Geo. F. Jones, who has been engaged in business in Morehead for the past four years, will leave in a few days for his old home, Owingsville. Mr. Jones has endeavored himself to many people during his stay here by his genial manner and straightforward business methods. Morehead in his going will lose one of her most valuable citizens.—Morehead Mountaineer.

His FOUNDER.—The farmer had just arrived in town for the Presidency some day. "What," he asked of his new-found friend, "is a bunco-steerer, anyway? I have seen a great deal of them in the papers."

"Of course," replied his friend, "you know what a bunco is?"

"Certainly."

"Well, a bunco-steerer is merely a man who steers another man to his bunk when he is unable to find it himself. He is a guide, a philosopher and a friend. And now, that question disposed of, I would like to show you where you are sure of getting not less than $50 for $1 if you follow my advice."—Chicago Post.

CORRESPONDENCE.

Who INDEED?—Who weeps when you are sad, and laughs when you are glad, and smiles when you are mad? The editor. Who has to be both kind and wise, and never (hardly ever) lies, and when he does creates surprise? The editor. Who owns a heart as well as a cheek, possessor of spirit proud yet meek, and lives on just 40 cents a week? The editor.—Ex.

NOT UP IN THE CLARICE.—"Who is this 'phenix' that seems to have something to do with rain's ashes?" "He's a fellow from 't' Indian Territory, I believe, an 'I understand there's some talk of running him for Vice President."

"New in politics, ain't he?" "Yep. But I guess he's gittin' pretty popular. I asked Jim Shol-tuck who he was an' Jim said he was a bird."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

POLITICIAN'S EXPEDIENT.—Growing tired of his chair, one afternoon, says a writer in Success, Speaker Reed surrendered it to another member and sat down beside a Western Democrat.

"My, what a large hand you have," remarked Mr. Reed, looking intently at the enormous paw of his Democratic friend, who was writing a letter.

"Yes, sir," said the member, "and I am proud of it. I worked on a farm for so many years that my hands grew large, as you see them."

The Speaker held up his small and shapely hand, smooth and white as a woman's, and said:

"Well, I thank the Lord I never worked on a farm."

The member replied: "You are probably going to run for the Presidency some day. Mr. Reed, and if you do, I'll placard that statement all over the country—and what could you do about it?"

The big fellow mused awhile and said:

"Nothing—except to brand you as an infernal liar!"—Exchange.

Gov. Taylor's Decision.

Louisville, Ky., June 7.—W. S. Taylor today sent to the Evening Post from Indianapolis the following statement, in which he declines to be a candidate for the Republican nomination for Governor:

"At one time I thought, and so announced, that if the Republican nomination for Governor were tendered to me I should not feel authorized to decline it.

"But after mature consideration of all interests involved in the contest for civil liberty, and of my duty to myself and to my family, for whom I must provide, I feel that I should ask at your hands relief from the exactions which a nomination would impose.

"For ten long months I have borne as best I could the burdens which have attended this great struggle. In spite of all this, the will of the people has been overthrown and I have not only been robbed, but subjected to a merciless political persecution.

"The coming campaign is one of profound importance to Kentucky. The ballot must be redeemed. The victory won last fall must again be won and the theft perpetrated by the General Assembly fittingly condemned.

"Our only possible redress must come through an appeal to the people. The campaign must be an active, aggressive one. No point should be neglected. Every friend of the sacred cause of human rights should be enlisted.

"To the end that the appeal to the people should be successfully made one who may devote all his time and energies to the prosecution of the canvass. In the light of these considerations, it is, therefore, manifest that some other than myself should be your standard bearer.

"While I can not longer be your leader in the great battle, yet I shall gladly tender whatever assistance may be within my power, for I love liberty no less the less because of what I have suffered for her sake."

W. S. TAYLOR.

Cleveland's Friend.

New Haven, Conn., June 7.—E. C. Benedict, the New York banker who recently returned from a trip with ex-President Cleveland, has written a letter in which he says:

"The gross outrages perpetrated on the good name of the Democratic party by the present managers of a party that name with scarcely a vestige of old Democratic gospel left in it, makes me at present a political orphan. I am practically disfranchised by their action, while their infidelity to Democratic principles have provoked indignity to the name to such an extent that I greatly fear we can never again succeed under it.

"I am not alone in this orphanage. On the contrary, I have not a single acquaintance among my Democratic friends with whom I have conferred who does not share the feeling with me. It is also very apparent that this political orphanage is not confined to those of our faith. McKinley is becoming almost as repugnant to the rank and file of the Republicans as Bryanism is to us. As a temporary choice of evils the former may survive the latter, but only for a little while.

"The vast and incoming rebellious elements from the ranks of both parties, having common dangers, are fast becoming common friends, and are anxious to become enrolled under one banner.

"But before an organization of these elements can be effected it is the plain duty of outraged Democrats to use their best individual efforts, in the absence of organization, to clean house by the complete destruction of Bryanism. From present appearances it is the only thing we can perform in the coming campaign. Soon thereafter McKinleyism must surely perish, as a punishment for its infidelity to all sound principles of government. Then will come the opportunities for the formation of a great party, based on a platform similar to that of the National Democratic party in 1896 (which was the soundest and most patriotic ever placed before our people), and the Moses to lead it will be forthcoming when the proper time arrives.

"The 'Bab ballads' tell us in substance that to enjoy heaven well we should have a few months of hell. This great, rich country is suffering vastly more from the pernicious action of its lawmakers and the unwarranted action of the administration than from all the law-breakers in the land; but our matchless form of government remains, under which our old party, with all its time-honored principles, may be born again with renewed patriotic vigor, with overwhelming ranks, and, quite likely, with a new name."
